DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claims 1-7, 11-17 and 19-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Keilman et al (US 6,231,516).

Keilman et al disclose transducer elements disposed along each of the straight lines 176 in FIG. 13 that produce acoustic waves downwardly. Electrodes comprising each element of the conformal transducer arrays 174A and 174B are photolithographically generated on the piezoelectric plastic substrate comprising the band 172. Leads that extend from an implantable electronic circuit are used to drive the conformal transducer arrays 174A and 174B . Any of the implantable electronic circuits shown in FIGS. 1 through 6 may be used for the implantable electronic circuits.

Regarding claim 4, Keilman et al teach each component that must be provided with a limited DC voltage supply may include a voltage limiting component, such as a zener diode.

Regarding claim 5, Keilman et al teach the piezoelectric material forming the transducer 280 may comprise a PZT-4 material for the feature of providing high electroacoustic coupling and low acoustic losses.

Regarding claim 6, Keilman et al teach the piezoelectric material forming the transducer 280 may comprise piezoelectric plastic materials such as PVDF.

Regarding claims 14-16, the device disclosed in Keilman et al is capable of stimulating the pudental nerve.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-10 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Keilman et al (US 6,231,516).

Regarding claims 8-10, Keilman et al teach, when ultrasonic signals are being transmitted by one of the selected transducers 44-46, the TX switch 48 couples the RF excitation signal received by the RF coupling coil 30 to the transducer 44-46 that is transmitting the ultrasonic signal, which is selected by the TX MUX 50. One of ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to combine this teaching with the required hardware of a pulse generator and drive and RF amplifiers to drive respective piezoelectric chips with different resonant frequencies to effectively generate the ultrasonic signals.

Regarding claim 23, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to implant the device disclosed in Keilman et al proximate the pudental nerve because the device is adapted to be implanted anywhere in the body.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.

In response to applicant's argument that Keilman does not mention the use of any implant with nerve cell or neurons as described by applicant is without merit, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
